

2014 South Carolina Green Schools Summit

Building on Common Ground

“Healthy, high-performance schools mean healthy, high-performance kids,” assert many of the leading state legislators committed to advancing green schools in their communities.

The green schools movement has the opportunity for a new platform for the engagement of community leaders and elected decision makers—one that transcends politics and advances an agenda that everyone can support.

Join a bi-partisan group of legislators, decision makers, school administrators, and green schools practitioners to learn more about best practices for all schools. The summit ends with a tour of Westwood High School.
